

Jim Broderick earns NWRA Lifetime Achievement Award

The National Water Resources Association (NWRA) honored Southeastern Colorado Water Conservancy District Executive Director Jim Broderick with its Lifetime Achievement Award Thursday, November 9, 2023, at the NWRA 2023 Annual Conference and Leadership Forum in San Antonio, Texas.

He had no idea it was coming!

Here is the information from the nominating form submitted earlier this year to NWRA:

“Jim Broderick has been a transformative force for water projects and water policy in Colorado through the Southeastern District and through his interactions with other water agencies. His creative approach to leadership has yielded numerous success stories over the years for the District, including increased water storage opportunities, a hydroelectric power plant named in his honor and launching of the Arkansas Valley Conduit. At the same time, Jim has led the Colorado River Water Users Association, Colorado Water Congress and the Arkansas Basin Roundtable with integrity and compassion. He has earned the respect of the entire Colorado water community as the 2021 recipient of the Wayne N. Aspinall Water Leader of the Year Award. Jim brought a wealth of experience to his present position from his time as an executive at Tucson water, and freely shares that experience as a mentor for future water leaders.”

Jim and his wife Cindy have one daughter, Amy.

Congratulations, Mr. Broderick!

Jim and Cindy Broderick at the National Water Resources Association 2023 Annual Conference and Leadership Forum in San Antonio, Texas.

“For exceptional leadership, dedication, and many years of service to the water community and in furtherance of the water resources of the United States — November 2023”